

CSUF Economics Seminar Series Fall 2017

Julio Garín, Claremont McKenna College

Sept. 15, 1:45-3:00PM in SGMH 2301

Julio Garín is an Assistant Professor at the Robert Day School of Economics and Business at Claremont McKenna College. Previously, he was at the University of Georgia. His main research interests are in the area of macroeconomics. He will be presenting "Are Supply Shocks Contractionary at the ZLB? Evidence from Utilization-Adjusted TFP Data".

Christina Connolly, Cal Poly San Luis Obispo

Sept. 29, 2:15-3:30PM in SGMH 2301

Christina Connolly is an Assistant Professor in the Agribusiness Department at Cal Poly. Her research interests include local food, health and direct marketing, spatial econometrics, and food and health. She will be presenting "The Neighbor Effect: The Nature of Spatial Externalities in the Decision to Adopt Organic Production Systems."

Heng Liu, University of Michigan

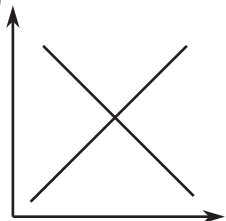

Oct. 13, 2:15-3:30PM in SGMH 2301

Heng Liu is an Assistant Professor in the Economics Department at the University of Michigan. He works on mechanism design and game theory. His current research interests focus on dynamic mechanisms and dynamic games.

Kelly Bedard, UC Santa Barbara

Oct. 27, 1:45-3:00PM in SGMH 2301

Kelly Bedard is a Professor in the Economics Department at University of California Santa Barbara. Her research includes influential studies of the effects of military service on health, determinants of gender test score gaps among children in OECD countries, and the determinants of obesity in populations of immigrants to the U.S.

Please contact nhuntington-klein@fullerton.edu with questions.